

CASE STUDY

Lockers Australasia/ William Buck

BACKGROUND

William Buck is a leading network of accountants and advisors with offices across Australia and New Zealand. With Covid-19 lockdowns and disruptions leading to a drastic shift in how we work, William Buck decided to introduce hot-desking to its Melbourne office. Without a desk for storage, staff need somewhere permanent to put their belongings while at work.

To achieve this, William Buck engaged Lockers Australasia, expert in keyless electronic locker systems and trusted AMD partner.

THE PROJECT

William Buck engaged Lockers Australasia to build staff lockers in the office. The initial order was for 120 timber laminate lockers, with more to come.

Lockers Australasia came to AMD Managing Director Adam Culpan and his team with a locker design, and AMD worked to make it a reality.

Mark Reinstein, Director at Lockers Australasia, explains that the project was needed as a result of William Buck's changing workplace.

“Due to Covid, there's a big change in the work arrangements,” he explains.

“Your desk today might not be your desk tomorrow.”

THE RESULT

120 timber laminate lockers were manufactured by AMD and installed in William Buck's offices. Each locker has its own electric lock, allowing staff to lock and unlock them with their own unique PIN code. They're operated by mains power, rather than batteries, for easy maintenance.

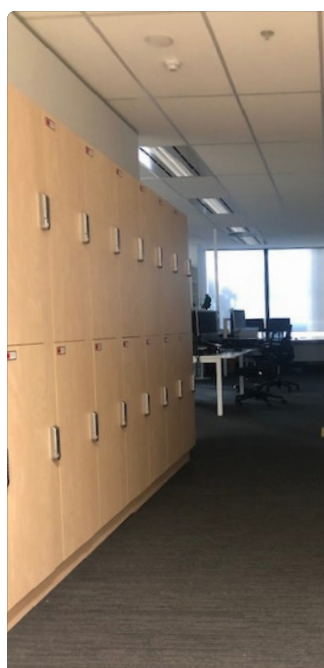

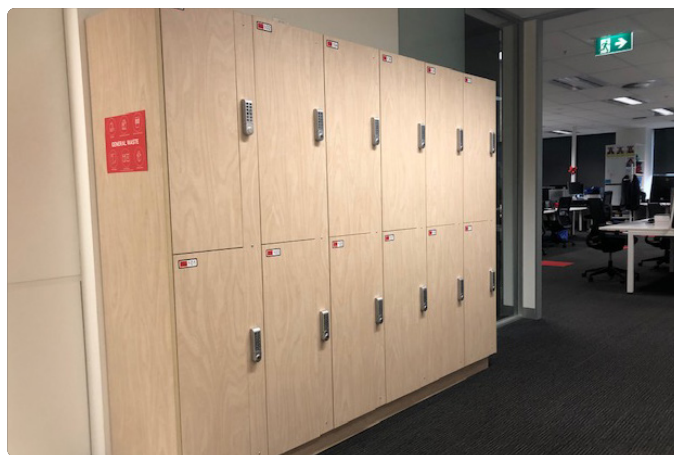

"The installation was successful, just seamless," says Mark.

"The William Buck team is dying to get back into the office to use them, but right now with COVID they can't
